

A FATAL WRECK AT WALDO, WIS.

Three Men Are Killed Outright In The Accident.

TWO MORE ARE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Wreckers Pile Ties On the Track and Throw a Freight Train On the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Road
From the Rails Late Last Night—
Victims Were Buried Under the Debris—Names of Those Killed.

Waldo, Wis., May 16.—Three men were killed and two seriously and probably fatally injured here Friday night by the wrecking of the fast freight No. 64 going south and due in Milwaukee at 12:45 a. m. The wreck was the work of train wreckers. The killed are:

JOHN O'CONNOR, engineer, Green Bay.

EMIL CASPARI, brakeman, Milwaukee.

JOHN MILLER, a tramp.

The injured are: Louis Tennis, fireman; hands and arms scalded and crushed. Ben Turbin, a tramp; leg broken.

Waldo is a small station twenty miles from Milwaukee, on the Lake Superior division of the St. Paul Road. The train does not stop there and was passing the station at the usual rate of speed. A short distance below the station it ran into a pile of ties which had been placed across the track and securely fastened. Engineer O'Conner whistled for brakes but there was no time to check the headway of the doomed train before it struck the obstructions. The engine and eight cars were piled up in a heap between the main track and the siding. Beneath them are the bodies of O'Conner, Caspari and Miller, the tramp. The latter was riding in a box car in the front of the train.

Fireman Tennis was pinned down under the wreck and at a late hour had not been released. It is feared that his injuries will prove fatal. Turbin, the tramp, was also caught in the wreck and how severely his injuries are cannot be told until he can be released.

INSTRUCTED FOR M'KINLEY.

Wyoming Republicans Adopt a Compromised Financial Plan.

Sheridan, Wyo., May 16.—McKinley and bimetalism were voted for by the republican state convention Friday. The committee on resolutions had a warm session, lasting until midnight. The platform as finally arranged is intended to meet the demands of all factions and therefore thoroughly satisfies no one. The delegates were instructed to support Chairman Vandeventer for a place on the national committee and William McKinley for president. The financial plank is as follows:

"We reaffirm allegiance to the principles of bimetalism as enunciated in the republican state platform adopted at Caspar in 1894. We commend the record of our senators and representatives in congress in maintaining these principles, and we instruct our delegates to the St. Louis convention to take like action when the financial plank of the platform of their convention is being made."

In another plank the convention pledged support to the nominees of the St. Louis convention, irrespective of the platform adopted.

Aurora Zouaves Are Winners.

Savannah, Ga., May 16.—The Aurora Zouaves will arrive home Monday $1,000 richer than when the company departed. They were awarded first prize in the zouave contest Friday afternoon. The company will spend Sunday at Chattanooga and reach home Monday night. The Morton Cadets, Washington, D. C., won the first prize, $2,500, with the Galveston semi-centennial championship cup and the title to champion military organization of the United States. The Oglethorpe infantry, of Augusta, was second in this contest.

Fatal Fire at McDonald.

McDonald, Pa., May 18.—A fire entailing the loss of two lives and the probable fatal burning of five children occurred here Friday. A large two-story dwelling located on the Patterson & Santess lease was destroyed and Mrs. Cadamire and her infant child were burned to death. Five other small children who were in the house at the time ran to aid their mother, and were all so badly burned that but little hope is entertained for their recovery.

Killed in a Stone Quarry.

Joliet, May 15.—James C. Searley, aged 67, and owner of the Searley stone quarry was run over by cars in his quarry and killed. He came to Joliet in 1831, and was wealthy.

Burglary at Clinton.

TRADE WAITS FOR THE CROPS

Dun's Report Says That Trading Is Duller Than a Year Ago.

New York, May 16.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, which issues today, says:

It is now the middle of May, too late for business to change materially until the prospects of coming crops are assured and definite shape has been given to the presidential contest by the conventions. Until the future is more clear there is a prudent disinclination to produce much beyond orders or to order beyond immediate and certain needs. If this waiting spirit prevails two months longer it will crowd into the last of the year an enormous business if the outlook then is good. For the present there is less business on the whole than a year ago, though in some branches more, and the delay following months of depression is to many trying and causes numerous failures.

An attempt was made to manufacture excitement in cotton out of the government report, but the price closed exactly as it began the week, and the report receipts have been actually larger than last year. All current arguments based on the assumption that the quantity used in manufacture has been or is now at a maximum rate are disproved by the closing of many mills for want of demand and the general effort to reduce wages, which has caused some strikes.

Wheat is unchanged in spite of all rumors, and the Atlantic exports, flour included, which were last year greater than western receipts, for two weeks, 3,059,484 bushels, against 2,917,305 received, have this year been only half as large, 1,906,414 bushels exported, against 4,079,239 western receipts.

The most fortunate of the chief industries at present is the boot and shoe manufacture, which is not only shipping to customers within 6 per cent of the largest number of cases ever forwarded in the first half of May, but is getting many new orders, and there are many urgent requests to anticipate orders for June and July delivery, indicating that distribution to customers has much outrun expectations. The iron and steel industry on the other hand, is pronounced as dull as it ever has been in its whole history at Pittsburgh, in part because of doubt about the maintenance of prices recently advanced, and the demand is so small that in spite of such advanced prices average 1.2 per cent lower for the week, Bessemer being no higher than it was three months ago at $12.65, while No. 1 anthracite also is lower, $12.50 in New York. The attempt to hold common bar iron at 1.2 cents leads many large customers to prefer steel bars, which sell at 11 cents, and prices of nails are expected to be reduced because of scanty demand. There is much promise for future structural work, but orders are deferred.

Sales of wool have been a little larger the last week, 3,543,200 pounds at the three chief markets, but for two weeks only 6,539,200 pounds, against over 11,000,000 pounds last year and in 1892. The large drives in clothing have cleared out stocks of some ready-made concerns, but check new business, and the general disposition is to postpone orders as far as possible.

Failures for the week have been 224 in the United States, against 211 last year and thirty-three in Canada, against thirty-seven last year.

Rosewater and Bryan in Debate.

Omaha, May 16.—Edward Rosewater, editor of the Bee, and William J. Bryan, editor of the World-Herald, debated the money question at the Creighton theater Friday night, under the auspices of the republican bimetallic league, whose president, Judge Gregory, was chairman. Every inch of standing room was occupied, while on the stage were leading citizens of each faction. Both speakers gave and took some decidedly hard knocks, the eloquence of Mr. Bryan vying with the solid array of facts presented by Mr. Rosewater in his earnest, matter-of-fact manner. The popular verdict of the audience, as expressed by demonstrations of applause, was clearly with the defender of the sound money system.

Women Stand by Their Colors.

Topeka, Kan., May 16.—The town of Ellis, Kan., is torn up over a war the feminine mayor and city council chosen at the April elections are making on the saloons. When they were elected they pledged themselves to clean out the saloons, which former administrations had refused to do, preferring to get a revenue out of the traffic. For three days eminent counsel on both sides have been working to get a jury to try a saloon-keeper who has been arrested. Last night they succeeded and now the trial is going on. The women have hired the best legal talent at the expense of the city and equally good lawyers have been employed by the defense.

Miss Sparrow Has Flown.

Lansing, Mich., May 16.—Miss Henrietta Sparrow, sister of Millionaire Edward W. Sparrow, has gone into hiding. She was recently committed to an asylum for the insane by the Probate court, from whose order the Supreme court this week decided there was no appeal. The night this decision was made Miss Sparrow and her trunks were taken away from her brother's house. Mr. Sparrow is in California, where he went before the finding of the Probate court was announced. It is said that the patient is about to be married.

DUPONT VOTED OUT BY THE SENATORS

AND STEWART WAS WITH THE OPPOSITION.

Celebrated Contest For a Seat Is Closed Against the Delaware Man
—Mr. Morgan of Alabama On the Treaty With Spain—General Washington News.

Washington, May 16.—By a vote of 31 to 30 the senate determined Friday that Henry A. Dupont was not entitled to a seat in the senate from the state of Delaware. This closed a long and animated controversy which had become one of the most notable contests of its kind in the history of the senate. The result was in doubt up to the last moment, and this lent additional interest to the final vote. There had been some question as to the direction of Mr. Stewart's vote, but it went with those of the democrats and populists, and was the deciding vote in declaring that Mr. Dupont was not entitled to a seat.

Mr. Morgan (dem., Ala.) presented a resolution concerning the Americans now under condemnation at Havana, and said he would address the senate on it to-day. The resolution directs the committee on foreign relations to inquire into and report on the rights of the United States under our treaties with Spain as to the trial of our citizens now under sentence of death by the Spanish military tribunals for alleged offenses of a political or other character and to report on that subject by bill or otherwise; second, requesting the secretary of state for literal copies of the protocol signed by Caleb Cushing and the Spanish minister; third, requesting the secretary of state to transmit copies of the recent correspondence relative to the condemnation of the Americans at Havana.

Mr. Gallinger (rep., N. H.) followed with another interesting resolution, as follows:

"Resolved, That the widespread business depression and rapid increase of the public debt demonstrates that the existing tariff law does not produce sufficient revenue, and that a revision of the law is imperatively demanded in the interests of the people of the United States."

Mr. Gallinger announced that he would address the senate on this resolution or some similar measure before congress adjourned.

The resolution heretofore introduced by Mr. Mills (dem., Tx.) directing the finance committee to investigate the effect on American products of the introduction of oriental products was agreed to, with an amendment by Mr. Allen (pop., Neb.) that the inquiry cover the relative labor cost in this country and the orient.

Mr. Cullom presented a final conference agreement on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, but action was deferred as Mr. Hill desired to look into the agreement on United States commissioners.

Mr. Bacon (dem., Ga.) was then recognized for a speech supporting his resolution prohibiting the further issue of bonds without specific authority from congress.

HOUSE GRANTS PRIVATE PENSIONS.

One Hundred Bills Passed in Spite of Determined Opposition.

Washington, May 16.—The house Friday occupied itself in passing the private pension bills which were favorably acted upon during the two special days given to their consideration. Mr. Erdman (dem., Pa.) and Mr. Talbert (dem., S. C.) threw such obstacles in the way of the bills as they could. Thirty-four were held up because they were not engrossed, but 100 were passed, leaving about sixty yet undisposed of. At the opening of the session Mr. Howard (pop., Ala.) rose to a question of privilege to denounce as fabrications some newspaper reports printed five months ago to the effect that he had entered the hall of the house in an intoxicated condition, and had been carried out by the colored porters. He explained that at the time of the alleged occurrence he was desperately ill, and had been ever since, and only day before yesterday had been able to return to the house of denounce his traducers.

The Hoge-Ortega election case from the Fifth Virginia district was unanimously decided in favor of Mr. Otey (dem.), the sitting member. After the night session the house adjourned until Monday.

Rinkaker Hopes to Get In Washington, May 16.—The election committee No. 1 of the house held a meeting to discuss the action of the house in recommitting the Rinkaker-Downing contested election case with instructions to recount the disputed ballots, but as the committee did not have official information of the action of the house nothing was done. The partisans of Mr. Rinkaker will urge the immediate adoption of a resolution instructing the sergeant-at-arms to proceed to Illinois and subpoena the clerks of the counties of the district with an order to bring the election ballots forthwith to the bar of the house for a recount. They believe that the ballots can be recounted and a final decision reached if prompt action is taken before the adjournment of congress.

DEATH IN THE GALE THAT SWEEP TEXAS

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE ATTENDS A CYCLONE.

Fierce Storm Visits Sherman, Texas—
Entire Western Quarter of the Town Utterly Demolished—Terrible Loss of Life and Property—
Storm at Other Places.

Sherman, Tex., May 16.—More than 100 persons were killed by a cyclone which swept this section late Friday afternoon. Sixty or more met death in this city and forty others are said to have been killed south of town. The list of injured is equally large. Fifty houses were wrecked and the western part of the town was completely swept away.

The iron bridge in Houston street is completely wrecked and blown away, notwithstanding its enormous weight. The number of persons wounded will reach not less than 100 and it will be several days before the exact number of fatalities can be given, as many persons, and especially children, are missing and many of the injured are in such critical shape that a score may die before morning.

The list of killed, as far as reported by the authorities last night, is as follows:

MRS. OTTO BALLINGER and TWO CHILDREN.

MRS. I. L. BURNS and TWO CHILDREN.

JOHN AMES and WIFE and TWO CHILDREN.

THE REV. J. S. SHEARER.

MRS. LUKE MONTGOMERY and TWO CHILDREN.

WILLIAM HAMILTON, farmer.

MRS. GEORGE ANDERSON and INFANT DAUGHTER.

MARY BELLE JENKINS.

D. L. PIERCE and SON TOM, aged 14.

MRS. DAVE HERRING and TWO CHILDREN.

UNKNOWN WOMAN and TWO CHILDREN, about 4 and 6 years of age.

The list of colored persons killed so far as learned up to 10 p. m. is as follows:

JAMES WALKER.

MRS. NORA NICHOLSON and TWO CHILDREN.

LUCY BALLINGER and DAUGHTER.

CHARLEY COX, son of Eliza Cox.

MARY LAKE and THREE CHILDREN. LETITIA, JOHN and FATUS.

Some of the wounded are: Jim Jenkins, wife and five children; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller and two children; Granville Jenkins, heavy siver of wood driven through the thigh; Mr. and Mrs. Halshell, both painfully bruised about the thighs, supposed to have been blown through a window; Eliza Cox, colored, hurt in the breast; Harriet Lake, colored, cut and bruised about the head; Ben Cephus, colored, his wife and son, Clarence, all have limbs broken, and are in a precarious condition; Lettie and Lummie Burns are badly hurt; Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Brown, badly bruised; Ike Shearer, son of the Rev. Mr. Shearer, who was killed, is badly bruised; Mrs. J. B. King and two children, seriously injured; Philip Nichols, received painful hurts about the head; Mrs. John Irvine and four children, all more or less injured; W. S. Bostwick, cut very seriously; Otto Ballinger, whose family were all killed, is badly hurt about the head; Hester and Nannie Nicholson, colored, of the family of which six were killed, are seriously and internally hurt; Dave Herring and Mrs. D. L. Pierce, who alone escaped death at their home, are perhaps fatally hurt; Mary Patrick, colored, and three children, all badly hurt internally; Mattie Johnson, colored, head hurt and injured internally, will not live until morning; John and Alice Newhouse, colored, and four children, badly hurt; Harriet Hendricks, colored, both legs broken; Miss Eva Pierce, daughter of D. L. Pierce, left leg and right arm broken; Mr. and Mrs. Wright Clark, painfully hurt.

The number of missing is large, and includes a great many children, and it is quite probable that the most of them are dead. It is very conservative to estimate that the list of fatalities will reach sixty, while the injured will reach 100. At least fifty houses are totally wrecked. Most of them are small cottages, except in Fairview and Washington avenues, where the handsome residences of L. F. Ely, Capt. J. C. Stalter, Mrs. Pat Mattingly and James Falls also succumbed. The loss will reach at least $150,000, and but little, if any, of it was covered by cyclone insurance.

The Sherman courthouse is insufficient to hold the dead and wounded. The vacant Moore building on the south square was utilized at 6 o'clock, fifteen colored people, dead or dying, being placed there. Express drays, baggage wagons and all kinds of vehicles continue to come in with bodies. Around the Moore building the highest excitement prevails and the greatest difficulty is experienced in getting the names of the victims and accurate reports.

The storm struck Sherman without warning on the southwest corner of the city and cleared a path 100 yards wide along the west end of the town. Houses, trees, fences and everything went before the terrible force of the cyclone. The negro part of the town suffered the most severely. There are probably thirty killed. Ten bodies have been picked up in Post Oak creek. The flood of rain which attended the storm was severe. The town is a mass of mud and floating ruins. There is much difficulty in finding the dead and injured. At 10 p. m. last night the mayor pro tem, acting for Mayor Edmon, who is now in St. Louis, started with a rescuing party to go over the path of the storm and search for more dead. In the confusion there is no telling how many are under the wrecked houses and along the creek, which is now running out. Several had been taken from the water before dark.

News north and south brings in intelligence of destruction and many killed on farms. The mayor estimates the death list now at the various buildings prepared for their reception at forty and there are about twenty dead in private houses. The family of Captain Ely escaped by leaning against a wardrobe. The large timbers hemmed them in and the brick house fell without the slightest injury to them. Wright Clark's arms and legs were broken and his wife badly injured. Mrs. Atkins and Mrs. Craighead are badly injured. Stock was killed everywhere along the path of the mighty elements.

There are others unidentified and at least seventy-five badly injured. Two thousand dollars was raised at the courthouse in a few minutes.

The mayor has called for a mass meeting, and everything is being done for the homeless and the injured. Matresses have been provided for all. Physicians have come from Denison to assist. There were many narrow and miraculous escapes from death. Large monuments in the cemetery went down, and houses covered up some, which escaped uninjured.

It is impossible to get a correct list of all the missing. Nearly every family in the district has some member that they cannot account for, and it is believed that most of the missing are dead. A waterspout accompanied the cyclone and the creeks are all out of their banks. Several objects thought to be human bodies were seen in the water, but could not be reached. The officers are making every preparation to dredge all the creeks in the vicinity to-day.

Six Persons Injured.

Newton, Tex., May 16.—Six persons were injured, one of them fatally, by a cyclone which passed near Mound Ridge, a station on the Missouri Pacific twelve miles north of here, Friday morning. A stretch of country about eight miles in length and 100 yards in width was devastated. Samuel Bass, a farmer, was fatally injured and his house demolished. Five others, whose names are unknown, were more or less seriously injured.

Storm Strikes Howe.

Howe, Tex., May 16.—Friday's terrible cyclone struck this town, leaving death and ruin in its wake. The path of the cyclone at this point was a quarter of a mile wide. Ten farmhouses and as many barns were wrecked. Eight persons were killed outright and many injured. Bark was ripped from trees and much stock was killed.

At Gribble Springs.

Denton, Tex., May 16.—A cyclone struck the town of Gribble Springs, eight miles north of Denton Friday afternoon. Four persons were killed and five others so badly wounded that they cannot live. The property damage is great.

Damage at Justin.

Justin, Tex., May 16.—A cyclone struck the town of Justin Friday at 2:20 p. m., blowing twelve houses down, killing one man, named W. J. Evans of Keller, Tex., and badly injuring seventeen others. The cyclone also did much damage north of here.

Tornado and Cloudburst.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 18.—Smithton, a mining town on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, about forty miles east of here, was visited by a windstorm and cloudburst Friday afternoon. The storm came up without the slightest warning and houses were unroofed, trees uprooted and small outbuildings demolished. The mines of the Waverly Coal company were badly flooded and nearly two miles of the railroad track belonging to the coal company were washed away. Three bridges were wrecked completely and 100 miners who were at work were compelled to flee for their lives, the water filling the mines to a depth of three feet before the men were able to get out. The loss is estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.

Call for More Troops.

Madrid, May 16.—I am able to state that the Spanish government contemplates sending to Cuba 40,000 men in October, after the rainy season is over, with a view of making fresh efforts in the autumn to crush the insurrection. Captain-General Weyler believes he can hold on during the summer with the aid of the 24,000 men that have been sent out since January. Latest telegrams from Havana report that General Weyler is now combining his operations to check the advance of Maximo Gomez, who is marching westward at the head of 10,000 insurgents.

Aid to Sectarian Schools.

Washington, May 16.—The conferees of the two houses on the Indian appropriation bill have agreed to allow the amendment made in the senate in regard to government aid to sectarian Indian schools to stand, but it is believed that when reported to the house the amendment will not be accepted.

ZUELKE IS SEEN NEAR OCONTO

The Much Wanted Murderer Is Roaming the Woods.

ASSEMBLYMAN FROST MEETS
HIM ON THE ROAD.

As the Rewards Offered Aggregate
$2,200 the Sheriff at Once Organized a Posse to Beat the Swamps
In the Vicinity of the Place Where The Suspect Was Seen—Payable
"Dead or Alive."

Oconto, May 16.—[Special]—Julius Zuelke, the farm hand who shot his employer, Edward Davis, in Green Lake county and made his escape is, thought to be at large in the wilds of Oconto county.

Assemblyman Frost and a traveling salesman, while riding from Maple Valley through the woods toward Millette, saw a man emerge from the thicket by the roadside, with a Winchester rifle slung over his left shoulder. When he saw them he instantly cocked the weapon and left it thus until he had passed them.

The traveling man had read a description of Zuelke and says the man before him answered the description perfectly.

The county of Green Lake offers a reward of $800; the town $100 and the state $300, for the murderer, dead or alive; the family offers an additional $1,000—making $2,200 in all.

As soon as the news reached this city the sheriff organized a posse and began a systematic search of the swamps in the vicinity of the place where the man was seen. As the reward is payable "dead or alive," the probability is that the posse will take no chance in capturing Zuelke, if the man proves to be the much wanted murderer.

Strikers Will Boycott a Bank.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 16.—At a mass meeting of the street railway men held at Liederkranz hall Friday night resolutions were adopted boycotting the First National Bank of this city and calling on all workmen to withdraw any deposits they may have there and do all they can to induce other depositors to do the same. This action was taken in the case of the bank because Frank G. Bigelow, the president of that bank, is a director of the Milwaukee Street Railway company, and the strikers believe the bank is assisting the company financially. This step is more serious, as it indicates a determination to carry the boycott into every class of business if necessary to win the strike.

Warship to Capture Filibusters.

Colon, Colombia, May 18.—The recent activity at the Spanish consulate has resulted in the warship Cordova sailing for San Adres Thursday night to look out for and intercept future filibuster Cuban expeditions that may be sent from America to aid the Cubans.

President Eliot and the G. A. R.

Cambridge, Mass., May 16.—President Eliot is neither surprised nor disturbed by the report that a Chicago G. A. R. post has pronounced him unpatriotic. He said Friday night he had already been informed of the resolution, but would say nothing regarding it.

Train Robbers Foiled.

Huntington, W. Va., May 16.—A crowd of armed men assembled at a watering tank near Nolan, on the Norfolk and Western road to rob the north-bound express train. The train crew were notified by wire and passed the tank at a high rate of speed. The robbers attempted to stop the train with a red light.

Buried Treasure Found in Texas.

Timson, Tex., May 16.—Rev. Mr. Rhodes, living 12 miles east of here, while plowing his field, unearthed 30,000 Mexican dollars. The money was buried in leather satchels, and they were almost rotten. Mr. Rhodes bought the place two years ago. For several years there has been digging in that community by unknown parties at night.

Denver Has a Fall of Snow.

Denver, Col., May 16.—Denver is ex-tremely Friday. The weather is not cold and in the city the snow melts nearly as fast as it falls but on the plains it is several inches deep and is a boon to the farmers, who have need of water for irrigation.

A WELL SPENT LIFE IS NOW AT AN END

WILLIAM PAYNE DIED EARLY THIS MORNING.

He Had Been Ill For a Long Time and It Was Known That He Could Not Recover—His Career as a Merchant and Citizen—Funeral to Be Held Monday.

Death came to one of Janesville's best known and most respected citizens at 4:45 o'clock this morning, when William Payne gave up the unequal struggle and breathed his last at his home on North Jackson street. He had been ill for some time, and for the past few weeks, it had been known that he could not long hold out against the steady advance of the sickness that was slowly sapping his strength.

William Payne was born at Waterbury, New Haven county, Conn., in 1814, thus making him eighty-two years of age at the time of his death. His grandfather, Thomas Payne, was a plain farmer of that town about three miles from the present site of the city of Waterbury where Raphael Payne, father of William Payne was born. Tradition says that three brothers landed on the coast of New England among the Puritan immigrants—two of whom settled in Massachusetts and one in Connecticut. The first two, and their descendants, spelled the name "Paine," while the one from whom the subject of this sketch descended adopted the other spelling.

The parents of Mr. Payne moved to Meriden soon after the birth of their son, and when he was five years old, again moved, this time to New York state where the father died six years later. From this time on William Payne made his own way in the world. At the age of thirteen he returned to Meriden with his mother, and obtained work in the factory from which grew the mammoth plant of the Meriden Britannia Company.

Married in 1835.

He proved an apt and ambitious workman, and in a strife to see which man could do the most work in the shop, he brought on a pain in the side that forced him to give up his situation. He was then seventeen years of age, and entered the business of canvassing for a book, at which calling he was successful. In 1835, at New Britain, Conn., he was married to Miss Julia Thorp, and left with his bride for Geauga county, Ohio, where he purchased a farm near Huntsburg. His old illness soon attacked him, however, and he was forced to give up farming. He then engaged in the occupation of salesman, at which he had been so successful before. He also became associated with a friend in the manufacture of silverware at Elyria, O. Besides selling the product of this factory, Mr. Payne dealt in jewelry, shell combs, etc. In a short time he disposed of his farm and began to employ peddlers on his own account.

Paid Up All Claims.

The financial stress of 1837 bore heavily upon him and he was forced to close up his business, but spent the next two years in collecting funds to pay up the claims against him—every dollar of which was met with interest. An exception occurred, however, for one creditor refused to accept interest under the circumstances.

For seven years, Mr. Payne sold woolen goods from a wagon for an Ohio manufacturer. In 1842 he went to Pittsburg, a d engaged as salesman with a wholesale dry goods house. Here his extensive acquaintance stood him in good stead, and when the firm for which he worked was burned out, he at once secured work with another—Schacklet & Glyde. In 1850 he became a partner in the firm, under the name of B. C. Schacklet & Co., and seven years later he was the sole owner. In 1858 he admitted a partner, and the firm became Wilson, Payne & Co. The business prospered, but failing health compelled Mr. Payne to retire in 1860. At that time he bought forty acres of land within the present limits of the city of Janesville; after a year's travel came here to live, and Janesville has since been his home.

Started the Woolen Mill

As a means of avoiding idleness, Mr. Payne, and others, established the Janesville Woolen Mill, the proprietors being Payne, Hastings & Company. When the company was incorporated, he was made president, but afterward disposed of his interest. He was also a stockholder in the Janesville Machine Company, but had given no attention to business for a long time. He had always been a supporter of the republican party on national issues, and both he and his wife were members of the Baptist church. Their only child, Mrs. Marion P. Leavitt, who resides with them, is also a worker in that church.

Mr. Payne enjoyed the happy reflection—which is denied to many—that no one ever lost a dollar through him. The dry goods house, of which he was a member, did a business of half a million dollars a year. It has been established for eighty-five years in the same city, and is probably the oldest house of its kind in America that has never suspended or failed.

The funeral will be held from the residence at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, and Rev. Dr. Hodge will officiate.

Phil Cheek, of Baraboo, was a visitor in the village Thursday. Seward Blunt, a Bennett college medical student was in town Tuesday. Mrs. Gilchrist and daughter, of Fairdale, Ill., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Goodrich. Mrs. A. A. Millar, of Crookston, Minn., has been visiting Mrs. S. I. Miller. L. L. Bond, M. D. of West Side, Iowa, shook hands with Milton friends Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Boyington, of Emerald Grove, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tracy this week.

The first match game of the season took place Wednesday afternoon between the college club and the Janesville high school nine. The game was advertised for 3:30 o'clock, but it was half an hour later before the home nine were ready to play. There is no valid excuse for such delays, and it is not only discourteous to the visiting club, but an insult to the patrons of the game, and should not occur again. The home team did some fairly good work in the field, and had no trouble in hitting Palmer, but when Blakely went into the box were unable to score a run. The visitors put up a ragged fielding game and did not earn many of their runs, in fact had it not been for errors of the home players three runs only would have stood to their credit. The score was twenty to eight in favor of the college. Batteries—College, Palmer Greene and Place; high school, Palmer and Blakeley. Dr. Ella J. Crandall left Wednesday for Milwaukee, to attend the State Homeopathic convention, where she read a paper on "Physical Culture for Women." From there she goes to Kenosha. She returned Thursday accompanied by her sister, Miss Kate. During the storm Tuesday afternoon lightning struck the house of C. R. Rice on High street. A few pieces of siding on the north end of the building were knocked off, but that was the extent of the damage. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Rice were injured by the shock, but the latter was terribly frightened. Considerable window glass was broken in the north and west parts of town by hail on Tuesday. No damage was done in this village, although the hail was as large as fashionable cloak buttons. Miss Emma Willard of Walworth, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Millard. Mrs. Burton and son Charles of Delavan, are the guests of Milton friends. Edgar Maxson and daughter of Walworth have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Millard.

Ginghams....

These Ginghams have a world-wide reputation. They were made by John and James Anderson, and are commonly called "Anderson Zephyrs."

The assortment of styles that we show them in is something wonderful.

It is the largest shipment of fine Ginghams ever received in Janesville.

They are perfectly fast in color, even the most delicate shadings.

The prices at which they have been sold all the season was 25c.

We bought this immense lot so low that we can offer them at a heretofore unheard of figure for such styles and qualities.

Our price is 15 cents.

Although commonly called Ginghams, they are almost like silk, so fine and even are the threads.

Their extreme fineness gives them a smooth, lustrous, silky effect.

For wear there is nothing in cotton wash fabrics more satisfactory.

We wish to particularly impress the fact upon the minds of all who read this that there is not an old style pattern in the collection.

Our pencil can give no adequate description of the beauty of these Ginghams.

They must be seen.

BEDRIDDEN.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF SUFFERING.

The Doctors Wanted Seven Hundred Dollars to Attempt the Case.

The following is a letter we received a short time ago from Mrs. M. C. Hinkley, 602 North Mississippi St., Indianapolis, Ind.: "Gentlemen:—While suffering intensely from piles, I became interested in your advertisement in one of our daily papers and procured a package of your Pyramid Pile Cure from our druggist. Contrary to my expectations, the relief was instantaneous. I used two boxes of the Pile Cure and one of the Pills and am convinced that they are the only sure cure for piles on the market. I have been a sufferer from piles for fifteen years and have been confined to my bed about one-half of the time, expecting and wishing for death for the pain was so great. I went to the college here and the doctors said my case was a new one to them, the great pain having brought on a large rupture, which they wanted seven hundred dollars to cut out. I was very much afraid that death would result from the blood-poisoning which they said would result from the operation. I feel as though I can't praise the Pyramid Pile Cure and the Pyramid Pills too highly, as I am convinced that they saved my life. Before using your cure I weighed only ninety pounds and now I weigh one hundred and fifty and feel as well as I ever did in my life. You are at liberty to use this testimonial in any manner you may see fit, as I want all sufferers from this terrible disease to know that there has at last been compounded a remedy that will cure piles."

There is no need of a danger, pain and expense of a surgical operation for any form of piles. The Pyramid Pile Cure does the work without pain and is the safest and best. Remember also that the Pyramid Pills are a certain cure for constipation, acting without griping and restoring natural action of the bowels.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1.00, and the Pyramid Pills at 25 cents, or by mail from Pyramid Co., Albion, Mich.

THE STORY OF A LIFE.

[The following poem was composed by Judge Clamitt to commemorate the death of Mrs. George G. Clittenden.]

"And she, my angel, who was my bride
The dead, I know has never died."

On a day she told the story
In the night and all night through
While the moon was in her glory
And the branches bent with dew.

Oh, the story she unfolded,
In her tender, matchless way
Was with perfume sweetness molded
As the buds of blooming May.

'Twas my life she told, and round it
Rose the years from the deep;
In the world's great heart she found it
Cradled like a child asleep.

By her side I watched her weaving
In the glow, and moonbeam cold—
All the warp her shuttle cleaving
With a sacred thread of gold.

Then she wove my tears of sorrow,
Mystic tears of memory sweet;
Then she wove our last tomorrow
And her web lay at my feet.

Of my life she made the story:
I must weep soon 'twas told;
But her grace did lend it glory,
And her love, it's thread of gold.

FREE SPEECH IS DANGEROUS

Minister Terrell Probably Remembers Bayard's Experience.

St. Louis, May 16.—A. W. Terrell, American minister to Turkey, passed through St. Louis on his way back to Washington, where he has been summoned by President Cleveland. Minister Terrell begged to be excused from discussing Turkish affairs.

"Freedom of speech is a privilege," he said, "which we all value, but recent events show this luxury is one of which our people who stay at home are quite jealous and they have made some conspicuous objections to its indulgence by our representatives abroad."

He did not say he expected to return to Constantinople soon, but his replies to questions indicated as much. Asked what he thought of the charge that he had not taken a bold stand in behalf of American missionaries in Turkey, Minister Terrell replied he did not consider the criticisms or the missionary who made them worth noticing. If any answer to the charge were needed, President Cleveland had given it in his message.

Butte, Mont., May 16.—Bond Bros' circus struck Butte Friday in a snow-storm.

After paying a state and county license of $250 their treasury was depleted, and the outfit was compelled to give the City of Butte a mortgage on three elephants to secure the payment of a $150 city license. This falls due tomorrow. There is a prospect that the City of Butte will have a few elephants on its hands.

FRANCE EXECUTES A COUP.

Holds the Key to the Mediterranean and Suez.

Berlin, May 16.—The foreign office regards with astonishment England's and Italy's inactivity concerning the opening of the new French war port at Biserta, on the coast of Tunis. The harbor already is stocked with two ironclads and plenty of war material. It forbids the Italian designs on Tunis and menaces England. It is capable of interrupting the connection between Malta and the Suez Canal. United States Ambassador Uhl will be received today by Prince Henry and afterward by various princesses and minor princes in rotation according to their rank. The official papers plead for the unconditional acceptance of the formation of the Fifth Battalion, promising that the government will declare in favor of the military code.

The liberals and the reichstag are indicative of an intention to re-establish the three years' service, which means enormous costs, aside from economic losses to the country. The fate of the bills depends on the centrists, whose leaders are unwilling to divulge their standpoint at present.

The first reading will take place on Monday.

Animals Predict Danger.

If men were not too proud to learn from animals they might be warned of many dangers. It was noticed for several days before the terrible earthquake in the Riviera a few years ago that the horses in that district acted very strangely. They would stop suddenly, and for no apparent reason would tremble violently from head to foot. When the disaster came, those who had noticed the terror of the animals concluded that they must have heard subterranean noises or felt a trembling of the earth so slight that men had not perceived it. It has also been stated that the birds took flight from Hamburg a few days previous to the cholera epidemic in that city two years ago, and it is supposed that they found the air pestilential.

Testing the Quality of an Umbrella.

"The best way to test the value of an umbrella," observed a young man, "is to use it for a walking stick on a plank sidewalk. If the umbrella is not worth carrying home it will not catch between the planks. If it is fairly good it will catch occasionally and break where it can be mended. If it is extra good, it will snap in three places and the jagged ends will stick through the cover."

It Is Difficult

Usually for a man unknown to the public, no matter what his profession or business is, to acquire a patronage in a very short time. If, though, he is competent in his business and his services satisfactory in every way he is bound to win in the end. That is the theory I go on at least. He, do you happen to know this place at all," handing me a slip of newspaper.

It was an auctioneer's advertisement. "An old-fashioned family residence, commanding extensive views," etc.

"Oh, yes, sir. I have lived in Nottingham," I answered. "That's one of the haunted houses in that neighborhood. My landlady could have talked a year about it. It incloses remains of a very old building."

"Very good. In fact, Van Tarnow and Prettygood both said you knew those parts. Well, the family, intimate friends of ours, cannot sell the property, and as the little peculiarities of the ghosts you have been told about verge on larceny, I think you may as well combine your August outing with a stroke of business that way."

"Very well, sir."

That was enough for me. I ran down by the night train and went over in the morning to the cottage in Sherwood forest, where I had formerly lodged. At the first mention of Gunthorpe Manor, Mrs. Wingood chattered as volubly as ever. The ghost had not been laid by the demolition of the bulk of the antique structure, but perambulated the new house and grounds. Vexed at its old haunts being annulled it revenged itself by tormenting the guests, and had taken away articles of jewelry from several sleeping rooms, not even sparing the Countess Massarene, who had been given the grand old bedchamber where James I. had been welcomed.

I went back to the town and saw the family solicitor. The articles lost by visitors up to the latest and most important disappearance of Lady Massarene's casket had not been seen by pawnbrokers. The police told me that they had not come upon them. I could answer for London's and Van Tarnow had investigated Holland and Hamburg.

I remarked to the lawyer "that the thefts have been perpetrated by some one who does not need money or who is unable to dispose of his plunder from being green to the job."

With a letter from Mr. Waschager to Mr. Gunthorpe to blind the servants to my true position, I drove over to the house.

It was very large since the thick walls of the castle had been preserved, though the tower and ramparts had been destroyed. I doubt not that the Sherwood forest robbers had held it even against forces from the town and Nottingham castle. The latter commanded it with modern artillery, but in its days of glory it would have mocked at its brass dragons. There was a moat with running water, in which one could fish out of the bedroom window, while the rabbits, always plentiful hereabouts, seemed showered over the capacious park, which merged into the forest itself.

I WOKE UP WITH A START.

Mr. Gunthorpe was a hearty old gentleman, a little bluff at first, with bowed shoulders, but alert under his gray hair. His mother seemed quite as likely to outlive him as his recently wedded wife, a town lady who had evidently been made nervous by the mysterious purloinings. Mr. Gunthorpe was good enough to introduce me as a friend of Waschager, and a gentleman connected with the law. I was rather timid at first, till I felt my head, but bless you, the strange robberies had frightened away these rich friends, and the twenty people in the large reception room were such as had nothing to lose and went to bed with their watches under their pillows. I kept quiet, but I was as much at home as those who had been staying a whole week.

They were rather jolly, and indeed were having a rare laugh at Mrs. Gunthorpe, senior, for having mistaken the wooden effigy of Robin Hood in the principal bedroom for a living man and spoken of it. There were others than I who had never seen it, and so I had no need to suggest that we should have a peep at it.

It was really a clever thing to have been carved in times gone back. It was cut out of the oak against which Robin Hood had made his last stand to the legal authorities. He was clad in green, the texture of the cloth well represented by graining the wood, quite life-size, and on a low pedestal, like the figures of a wax-work show. It was all painted up in natural colors. He had a bow and a string of wire in his hands, and leaned a trifle forward on it with a sort of mocking smile, and as he laughed at the idea of his ever being captured. I have seen the same expression on many a superior rogue.

I do not know that I examined the statue more particularly than the others, because I was studying their faces and those of the butler and another servant who had come along to open the door. I fancied that Mr. Butler gave a slight start when his master bade him prepare this room, not for the persons of quality who were of the party, but for plain Mr. Grograin, as I was announced to be. Mr. Butler was very assiduous toward me at dinner, if not personally, by ordering the footmen not to neglect me, and, if I had not been on my dignity, I saw that he would have liked me to have shared a bottle with him in his own room.

However, I lay down that night in the huge room to reflect over the legend, and whether, as I had the impression from the start, it was not related to the thefts of the present time. The big bed was very comfortable, and calmed one off to sleep as if he had been given a soothing syrup. Still I had time to reflect on the legend told me.

In the days of the foresters of Sherwood, the owner of Leebing castle, who lived on bad terms with the greenwood rovers, from his cherishing his deer as private property, was informed by a warden that a man in the hateful green of the venison stealers had been prowling around all the morning and was suspected by the sentinel of having climbed in at a window. My lord had his own opinion of the object of his visitor's call, and when he saw his young and beautiful daughter confused at his question, he had simply felled her to the ground—brute that he was—and rushed, foaming at the mouth and with sword and dagger drawn, all over the castle, crying out: "Flame and faggot for the deer stealers!" But the follower of the free woodmen was not to be found, and what made the sting of defeat far keener, when the lord returned to torture his daughter into a revelation she had vanished like a spectre. Then, only then, he remembered that the monks had talked of a secret cell, where their prior had hidden from an ancestor of his. He ordered close guard without and within and rode over to the priory. But the monks pretended to ignorance, and he went home more furious than ever. For days he lived like a hermit in the room where he had last seen his child, sleeping with drawn sword between two wolf dogs, but his watch resulted in nothing. Isabel and the young forester were never seen more.

Dreaming is something I am not given to unless I have not had my regular "go" at tobacco. I certainly had smoked a couple of cigars—very fine—but I longed for a pipe. That made me restless, and I had the dulllest serving up of my thoughts—fancies that I had not seen for twenty years, and those of the last day—a jumble so that I hardly knew where I was spending the night. I daresay I was tired, too. Anyhow, I remember just as I had reasoned out that, as the house walls were identical with those of the old castle, there might still exist the secret hole, I heard a twang like a bow string let go after a lusty pull. I am not sure I woke, but fancy I recalled a kind of human figure in light colors cross the room and return with a companion. There was a jingle, as of coin, and I went off to sleep again, sound as a stone. So I thought. But I woke up with a start, cold as if I had been plunged in ice water, and then I was out of the clothes, standing beside Robin Hood. I rubbed my eyes, for the scoundrel seemed to be nodding to me for a moment and grinning, and I could swear the bowstring was vibrating, but, of course, the moment I put my finger and thumb to it that stopped the thrill. I walked all around it in the dark. Then I lit the candle, and made a thorough search of the room. But the wainscoting had been painted and varnished in these five years, and there was not a crack that I could decide to be a panel. I lost my temper at being so baffled when I was confident of being on the right track, and stamped my foot. The good old oaken plank yielded not a jot to my rage, but I heard something like the clash of metal in the direction of the statue. I ran over to it and gave it a shake. I might as well have worked with the giant oak, it was hewn from. Nothing gave way, though I believed there was an echo of the metallic sound, within or below. I knocked on the wood in all parts with the massive extinguisher of the candlestick, but it did not seem hollow.

I sat down on the table, swinging my legs as I reflected, wrapped up in the coverlet till morning, only removing my gaze from the statue to scrutinize the room. Mr. Gunthorpe found me there when he came, in anticipation of the servant's call to breakfast. His was not a house for gongs or bells. He was too agitated to notice my curious position.

"Mr. Brooker, the short gentleman with red whiskers," cried he, "has been robbed of his pocket book in the night. What on earth am I to do with this depredation going on, sir?"

He fairly wrung his hands in despair, as if he had lost all hope now that the London detective had not been his palladium.

"Will you please leave me here? Send me breakfast, meanwhile, and go learn if anyone else has been disturbed."

He returned simultaneously with the servant and his tray of tea and toast, anchovy and eggs, with an even more deplorable look.

Pantler, the butler, was missing, and his wife was sure the ghost of Robin Hood had spirited her poor, dear John away.

I remembered the nocturnal visions, the one that had become two, the twang of the bowstring, and I said when the footman withdrew:

"I would not like you to laugh at me, sir, but the key to the mystery is held, I am confident, by this grinning monster in Lincoln green."

"Eh?" astounded as if I had purposed cutting his grandfather's portrait into whip snappers.

"There is a hole in the wall or floor somewhere, here or there, and the handle to the trap or panel is in this figure. And the machinery is in actual use, for I should have heard the creak if it was let get rusty. I've felt the thing all over, and found nothing, though, like a boss. It's a boss' puzzle, sir, that's what it is!"

"Dear me! Bless us!" said he, rubbing his chin in the hollow of his hand. "The eyes don't move, do they?" as if it made any difference whether they did or not.

"More like the hands," I blurted out, conjecturally. "Do you see? I mean the bow! I'll have a good pull at the bow, anyway!"

You are welcome not to believe it, but when I put one hand to the bow and the other to the wire chord and pulled at the first while a-pushing at the other they bowed apart wide, and as the bow ends came down the figure bent in the middle and ducked its head and shoulders, as if to make a back for leapfrog.

"And, sir," I said, "if you will turn your eyes round, you'll see that the bow has done the trick."

A yard square panel of the wainscoting had slid right down below the floor level, clean as a whistle. We ran up and looked down. It was an easy jump, and a candle box was put there for a step. The cell was not as large as you could give a promenade concert in, but it would hold a Daniel Lambert without squeezing him tight. There was a very tidy collection of empty sardine boxes and American provision tins, showing that good living does not depend on the length of your dining table. But the birds had flown. There were two or three jewel cases, empty also, under my feet when I stepped down. There was a puff of cold air.

"There is another opening," said I. "You may come down and look around for the skeleton of your great-grandfather, if you like, sir," nettled by his still looking, struck all of a heap and this was nothing so wonderful, after all. "I am going to push straight on and see where the business comes out."

I nearly broke my neck by falling down some steps in the walls, but after that it was smooth sailing into the open air. It was not in the woods that we were to overtake the butler and a young woman who had begun by helping him to reduce the larder stock, and then took care of the property which he stole from the guests. They had managed it neatly. When she was afraid to tackle the guest in the Robin Hood rooms she would open the door to let him in; or if he had robbed the tenant of another chamber, she likewise opened the way for his passing the goods to her in her receptacle. For caution's sake she dwelt there as long as possible without change. Luckily for the owners, the precious pair had intended to elope with their spoil when complete, and nearly all the valuables were recovered, and quite a show they made in the justices' private room at the town hall. Mr. Pantler was "nailed" at Derby, she nearer London. The trial was brushed through without more evidence than sufficed to convict, as Lady Massarene did not want any parade made over her name. The hole in the wall was filled up. Master Robin was put out in the gardens when Mr. Gunthorpe died recently, and his still young madam had a gas tube stuck in the bolt poacher's hand instead of the bow, which I had pulled to good purpose.

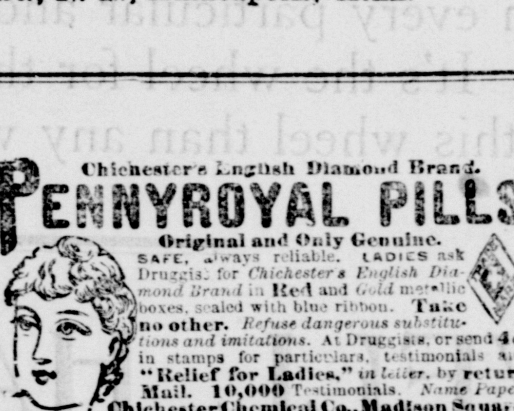

OH! WHAT A RELIEF.

"I suffered with terrible pains in my left ovary and womb. My back ached all the time.

"I had kidney trouble badly. Doctors prescribed for me, and I followed their advice, but found no relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Oh! what a relief it is, not to have that tired feeling day after day, in the morning as much as at night after a hard day's work, and to be free from all pains caused by Ovarian and Womb troubles. I cannot express my gratitude. I hope and pray that other suffering women will realize the truth and importance of my statement, and accept the relief that is sure to attend the use of the Pinkham Medicine."

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of Mount Caucasus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined?

Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtasked, the bowels become clogged they cannot dispose of the food that is given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Then come the vultures—the torments of a diseased liver.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is more than equal to the vultures of dyspepsia and its kindred diseases. Every atom of the "Discovery" is like a ferret, wherever it is sent. It is as sure as the needle of the compass. There is no more need of suffering from dyspepsia than there is of hanging oneself. Sold by all medicine dealers the world over.

What Is Bicycling

Without the Proper Clothing?

The person who rides a "bike" cannot thoroughly enjoy the exercise without they are dressed comfortably for it. One wishes to feel free in the limbs as well as the rest of the body so that the motion is not tiresome more than is necessary. We have sold and are selling more Bicycle Suits than any concern in the city. That must signify something. It must mean that we have the assortment, make prices that are not too high and otherwise satisfy purchasers. We have hundreds of pretty pattern cloths to select from. If you don't find in stock what exactly pleases you we can send away for any style you want.

We have a wonderfully nice assortment of CAPS, the kind that are cool and are nice to wear for every day.

SWEATERS in many styles and prices.

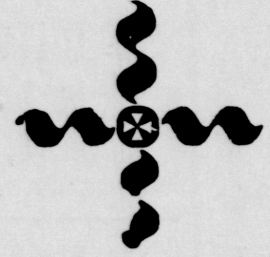

We fit you out complete, and don't ask too much money, in bicycle clothing.
